

The change to the building is very minimal. All the rooms are already there.

The shop will be accessed by the existing front door. There will be a wall across, dividing the shop from the rest of the dwelling. There will also be a door from the shop to the dwelling.

There is a door to the rear garden which is the main access to the dwelling.

There is no changes to the exterior of the building at the front from the High Street only a small shop sign replacing the large one that's there at the moment.
