Thank you for the above planning consultation.

It should be noted that a similar planning application for this locality was approved in 2024, see ref 4/24/2384/0F1 though that development has not yet been carried out.

Could the applicants please confirm if the (potentially) two separate antennae from each respective planning application may be safely sited in close proximity?

Like the previous above application, the applicant has included a Declaration of ICNIRP Compliance and advice as regards safety of non-ionizing radiation from the development. The development should not interfere with existing radio and television coverage in the area or with other electrical equipment, though further advice / redress on this matter is provided by Ofcom, the regulator for communications services.
